AN AIRPORT FOR NORTHFIELD AND NOW COMMENCES THE CO-OPERATION SOEELY NEEDED FOR OUR INFANT INDUSTRY

Period of Silent Contempt? Followed by Knocking Now Apparently Over and All Hands Getting Hold of the Rope for a Pull Together

All goes well with the work down on the meadow, and it looks as if the field will be in good shape days before the planes are due. The corn has been harvested and preliminary plowing and harrowing done at various bad spots. Experienced woodsmen have already added to the score of the big trees being cut down along the river bank. Each day sees a distinct improvement unless serious weather conditions prevent, we should have quite a model field for our visitors to inspect next week. And, if weather conditions are favorable on the advertised dates, all signs point both to a goodly attendance of visitors and planes. Let us hope for the best in the line of weather. Cheerio.

Co-Operation Starts

Just as we are going to press quite a number of definite promises of co-operation are coming in. Sorry we cannot acknowledge and confirm them all in this issue, but we rather hope the way things are going to print a dandy Special Combination Airport Issue and Program of the Field Days "Tri-State Weekly", The Northfield Press, next Friday morning, that will open some eyes that have hitherto been apparently blind to what we are trying to accomplish. And, by the way, advertisers will find this a wonderful opportunity but there will be absolutely no chance for them unless they get their copy in not later than Monday next. And that's that.

Band Transportation

Good news. The Transfer Company has offered to furnish the transportation (meaning two busses each way for the two afternoons) for the Mount Hermon School Band, when it gives a program at the field next week. Hurray! Just so much more money saved to apply to getting our Airport into the A-1 class. If this sort of thing only keeps up, we'll have little old Northfield solid on the ground with an air industry, if you can get what we mean.

Band Concert

The Mount Hermon School Band of port field day on both afternoons, sub-about 30, pieces have gallantly come forward and, with Dr. Cutler's consent, have offered their services at the airport field day on both afternoons, subject only to transportation being provided for them from the school to the field and back again. The boys are full of enthusiasm over this opportunity to serve the community and are practicing away upon both music and marching, so that we feel confident of a splendid treat in store for those who will be gathered at the field.

Guard Offers

The regiment of the Boston Boy's Brigade, in which "Lal" Quinlan is an officer, has offered to send up a detail to camp on the field both nights and maintain a guard and assist in preserving order, etc., all at their own expense, except for subsistence. We hope that this fine offer can be accepted without in any way preventing our local Boy's Brigade or Boy Scouts from coming forward, if they so desire, to assist in this very necessary work.

One Way Street

The Meadow street road down to the meadow from the railroad track on is a narrow one and it hardly seems possible to handle traffic on it in both directions, during the days of the flying, without accident. It is hoped that all autos will use Meadow street only for an entrance to the field and make their exit either at Parker avenue or on the Bennett's Meadow Bridge road. Also, the railroad crossings at Meadow street and Parker avenue are not so good, and it is hoped that guards can be maintained at these crossings during the two days and give prompt warning of trains and guide traffic, if it should be as large as is to be expected. Fred Fox has offered to letter suitable signs for these entrances and exits, as well as for other necessary places in the field, and this is going to be a splendid help.

River Patrol

It is going to be necessary to have a boat on patrol on the river during the daylight hours of both flying days, and Fred Fox has offered his launch for this service, but has gone away for a week or two and may not be back in time. However, we believe that the Reed boys with their motor boat, or other volunteers with even a rowboat, will fill this gap when the time comes.

Legion Auxiliary Held Annual Dinner Tuesday

Twenty-four members of the auxiliary of the American Legion gathered at the Northfield hotel Tuesday evening for the annual dinner and business meeting, with Mrs. Clyde Mattern presiding. Reports showed a membership of 32, and a satisfactory sum in the treasury. During the year past the auxiliary has worked for the Veterans' hospital No. 95 at Northampton, sending them boxes at Christmas and Thanksgiving, and also consignments of silk pieces. The auxiliary has also done child welfare work in the community. They hold business meetings monthly with a social, at which the Legion members are often guests. The officers elected are: President, Mrs. Joseph Ross; vice-president, Mrs. George McEwan; secretary, Mrs. Robert Wilder; treasurer, Miss Edith Steadler; chaplain, Mrs. Fred Bolton; sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. Fred Huber; historian, Mrs. Stanley Payson; executive committee, Miss Marion Holton, Mrs. Mary Spencer, Mrs. E. #### New Policy at Garden Theatre Starts Monday

The Garden Theatre management announced that on Saturday, Oct. 5, Betty Compton in "Street Girl" would start a four-day engagement, and from then on new shows will be presented on Saturday, Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, and a new show on Wednesday running Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. This policy is entirely new to this part of the State although it has been in effect in the larger metropolitan centres for the past year.

A spirited and tuneful drama that clearly shows the possibilities of the new-form musical film entertainment is the Radio picture, "Street Girl," which opens Saturday at the Garden theatre. The picture is distinctive in that the movement of the story and the musical sequences are naturally dependent and correlated.

Betty Compton, who has reached new heights through the medium of talking pictures, heads the cast of well-known players. The talented star possesses a rich, sweet voice and a wealth of dramatic power. Her role in "Street Girl" is regarded as the greatest characterization of her career.

Mrs. Rosella Russell Webster Died Monday Night

She was a native of Barton, Vt., and was married three times. Her first husband was Frank Smith. After his death she married George Shaw of Orange, where she lived many years. She married Frank Webster of Northfield about 20 years ago. Mrs. Webster leaves three daughters, Mrs. Edith Rudbeck of Orange, Mrs. Ethel Clark of Freeport, Ill., and Mrs. Ethel Sprenger of Springfield. The funeral was held at Klidder's funeral parlors at 1 o'clock on Wednesday and burial was in Orange.

State Cancer Clinics

Massachusetts is fortunate in having 17 State-aided cancer clinics giving the best possible facilities for early diagnosis of cancer. More and more people are attending these clinics, as ignorance is displaced with sane facts about this dread disease.

A recent survey made by the Associate Cancer Committee of Lowell shows that individuals are now coming to the clinic from all localities comprising the Lowell district.

The conclusions of the survey are: 1. Three-fourths of the individuals with cancer in the Lowell district are being reached. 2. One-third of this number, or one-fourth of the total cancer cases, are being cared for by the Lowell clinic. 3. The Lowell clinic is reaching into all the communities in its district.

Greater efforts must be made to reach the 25 per cent of untreated cases which are probably largely early cancer cases. In these the most effective work can be done.

The conquest of cancer lies in early recognition and early treatment. When the people, as a whole, understand the significance of the early signs of cancer, this second hazard to life may be placed with those diseases now well under control.

A pamphlet giving the danger signals of cancer may be had on application to the State Department of Public Health, State House, Boston, Mass.

Any one having any of the significant symptoms of cancer should at once go to his physician or to one of the State-aided cancer clinics to learn whether he has cancer or not.

The clinic locations for this area are: Greenfield, Franklin County Hospital; Montague City, Farren Hospital; alternating last Friday of each month, at 3 p. m.

HIS WILL

By M. W. A.

Teach me Thy Will each day,
And if the darkened hour comes, to pray.

Let me learn to lift mine eyes
From earth to the starry skies.

Teach me to be grateful
For life's memory.

Then when age overtakes me,
Let me come to dwell with Thee.

COMMUNITY FAIR AT TOWN HALL WENT OVER GOOD AND STRONG

Old and Young Folks' Dance With the Old Fiddlers' Orchestra a Special Success

The Community Fair, given under the auspices of the Northfield Grange, Friday and Saturday last week, wound up in a blaze of glory with an Old and Young Folks' Dance in the big auditorium of the Town hall, that will long be remembered as a most enjoyable affair by the many old and young who participated in it. All honor to our own Joe Field, who saved the day (or would it be evening?) when only a portion of the Old Time Fiddlers' Band showed up and, even then, minus the very necessary bow for the bass violin. And more honor to our own Lucky Clap, who curiously proved himself almost as good a floor leader as he is a farmer. And there should be a long list of others who aided materially in making the party such a success but time and space will not permit.

At the fair not only farm and household products were displayed, but lines of interesting appliances. Paul Alger and Miss Gladys Sibert of the Franklin County Farm Bureau were present and judged the exhibits, awarding money prizes and other exhibits were marked with colored cards.

Robert and Raymond Miller had the best exhibit of vegetables. The fruit was the best exhibit of farm products of the fair. Newcomb and Bolton of Leyden won first, Northfield school second. Award for corn was given William Dalton; flowers, Charles F. Slate, Robert Shearer; fowls, M. T. Moore; fancy work, Mrs. L. H. Lazelle and Miss Hannah Cottor, both cose contestants. Miss Cottor had much fine embroidery and choice pottery from Ireland. Mrs. Lazelle, baskets, rugs, quilts and other articles. There were several quilts and rugs displayed. Mrs. J. F. Bittinger receiving the award in rugs. Marion Wells won first prize in canned goods; Mrs. A. H. Mattoon, jelly; Mrs. Fred Wells, bread and cake, with Mrs. A. M. Wright second in bread, doughnuts and cheese. The Boy Scouts had an attractive camp, with specimens of their collections. Radios were displayed by H. A. Reed & Son, H. E. Buffum and G. N. Kidder. Mr. Kidder also had a demonstration of a utility kitchen and modern living room. Alfred Holton showed electrical appliances. The Easy washing machine was shown by a Greenfield firm. Roger Lyman had a fine exhibit of photographic pictures. Boys handicraft exhibit by the Reed, Ross and James boys was attractive.

During the evening H. A. Reed showed moving pictures of the recent accident and the wrecker at work at Ware's crossing. Cake, ice cream, candy and hot dogs were on sale all the evening. Saturday afternoon the home-cooked food sale was a well patronized feature of the fair.

In March of this year, the president of the district, Mrs. Jeanie Hilton of Orange, started a flag traveling from one unit to another, until it makes the circuit of the 12 units in this district. Miss Annie Marvel, president of the Millers Falls unit, presented the flag to the Northfield unit Friday evening with a ceremony of music, which included piano and vocal solos, a cornet selection and whistling. The purpose of the traveling flag is to afford an opportunity for members of the various units to meet. After the ceremony, whist and bridge was played and refreshments served by the local organization. There were 45 present.

Women's Rally at North Church, Wednesday

Notwithstanding the storm Wednesday evening, fully 80 women gathered at the vestry of the Congregational church for the Women's Rally, which was presided over by Miss Grissell McLaren. A beautiful pageant-tableau, "The Way of the Cross," was first presented by members of the Friendly class, Mrs. Hartzell, Miss Mason, Rev. Mr. Pattison and others. The candle-bearers, the illuminated cross, the tenor solo, "The Old Rugged Cross," by Jesse Davis, and the Scripture interpretation, were very impressive. A quartette from Mount Hermon, J. Lawrence and Mr. Davis, Mr. Deming and Mr. L. A. Smith, all of Mount Hermon school, gave some fine musical renditions. Then followed a general outline of each of the programs for the year of the women's organizations of the church: Mrs. Pattison for the Mother's Society; Miss Munde for the Evening Auxiliary; Mrs. L. H. Lazelle for the Sewing Society; Mrs. L. R. Alexander for the Bible class; Mrs. McLaren, Missionary Society. Miss Maud Hamilton explained the Guest Book on Mission which many churches are adopting to create interest.

Mrs. Florence Warner impressed all with the immediate need of the raising of $140 as the church's quota of the Golden Anniversary gift, to be used for the Schauflier Memorial Training School and Northland College, both in our Middle West. Articles were made for the hospital of Dr. Mary Cushman in Angola, West Africa. Refreshments were enjoyed. Tyler and Mrs. Henry Guitney assisted Mrs. Barr for the social time, when all enjoyed the refreshments served.

Lake Pleasant

The Temple's room will continue to keep open through the month of October.

Guests who have enjoyed the splendid Fall days here still linger at the Home Comfort House.

Several here are planning to attend the National Spiritualist Convention in Boston during the week of Oct. 14.

Mr. von Bourg's translation, which took place at his home in Minneapolis Friday, Sept. 27, will be a great loss to Lake Pleasant, as he had endeavored himself to all here.

The dance at the Temple Saturday drew the same large attendance that has been manifest throughout the season, and the requests to continue the dances in October were so numerous that they will be continued as long as the weather and attendance is good.

Mrs. Mary J. Boyden, president of the Neighborhood Club, and Mrs. Louise A. Feyl, treasurer of the Ladies' Improvement Society, were also present as representatives of those organizations. Rev. Blinn offered prayers, followed by the reading of the poem, "He Who Died at Azan," and delivered an impressive address regarding Mr. von Bourg's splendid work as teacher, psychic and as executive of the Camp Association.

Memorial services for Rev. Otto von Bourg, president of the New England Spiritualist Camp Meeting Association, president of the Minnesota State Association of Spiritualists, pastor of the First Spiritualist Church of Minneapolis, and notationally known psychic and lecturer, were held in the Temple Sunday afternoon. Upon the platform were Mrs. Helen R. Turney and Mrs. Josephine M. Starn, president-emerita and first vice-president, respectively, of the Camp Meeting Association; Mrs. Ida A. Holcomb, past president of the First Spiritualist Church of Springfield; Mr. William O. Wicher, president of the National Spiritual Alliance, and Rev. Albert P. Blinn were the officiating clergymen for the service. Mrs. Lillian J. Blinn served as pianist.

Judging Teams of M. A. C. Made Record at Eastern

M. A. C. judging teams made an exceptional record at the Eastern States Exposition held last week in Springfield, placing first in judging dairy products, second in judging general livestock, and fourth in judging dairy cattle.

This is the second year that the dairy products judging team has won first place at the Eastern States Exposition. This team is composed of Osman Babson of Gloucester, Charles F. Frame of Rockland and Theodore Marcus of Roxbury, and was coached by M. J. Mack and H. G. Lindquist of the dairy department. The team not only won first place in judging all products, but won first in judging of milk, butter, cheese and ice cream. As individuals, Babson won first place in judging milk and butter, Frame was first in judging cheese and Marcus was first in judging ice cream. In all products, Babson was second, Frame third and Marcus fifth. Four teams competed in the contest. Ontario Agricultural College was second, Rutgers University third, and the University of Maine fourth.

Five teams competed in the general livestock judging contest, which included beef cattle, horses, sheep and swine. The college team as a whole placed second. Individual placings were as follows: Herman U. Goodell, Southbridge, fifth; Osman Babson, Gloucester, sixth; Herbert A. Goodell, Southbridge, ninth; Vincent J. Riley, Somerset, 18th; Charles W. Harris, Jr., Leominster, 20th. This team was coached by G. V. Glatfelter of the department of animal husbandry.

The dairy judging team, which placed fourth in the judging of all breeds, was first in the judging of Holsteins. This team was composed of Winthrop A. Ames, Falmouth, who was high man in judging Holsteins; Frank A. Skogberg, Worcester, who was third in judging Jerseys; and Lawrence M. Shepard, West Boylston. There were eight teams in this contest, and the college team was coached by V. A. Rice of the animal husbandry department.

FASHIONS for the SMART WOMAN

CHIC LINGERIE

Today is the beginning of National Home Sewing Week, and all over the country, stores, schools and manufacturers will offer special services to women who are making smart new clothes for their Spring wardrobes. And since the foundation of every successful wardrobe is dainty lingerie why not start out by making the combination and the nightgown ensemble shown above? Radium silk, flat crepe, crepe de Chine or a fine quality of rayon, with lace banding, gives a charming effect. Both the combination and the ensemble are as smartly tailored as your newest frock or Spring coat.

First Model: Pictorial Printed Pattern No. 4791. Sizes 14 to 42, 35 cents.
Second Model: Pictorial Printed Pattern No. 4770. Sizes 14 to 42, 30 cents.

The college livestock also made a creditable showing at Eastern States. Bay State Peer, young Ayrshire bull, won second place in the Eastern Ayrshire futurity contest, which consisted of 20 entries and which was one of the feature contests of the cattle show, more money being offered for this particular class than any other in the exposition. The college also placed fifth and seventh in this contest. In the open class, Bay State Peer again won second, and a college bull won fifth. In the horse classes, Bay State Renown, son of Revelation, who was champion at Eastern States in 1925, 1926 and 1927, placed second in the stud foal class, while two college animals placed first and third in the filly foal class. The college also won second place with a five-year-old mare in her class, first and third in the productive dam class, and second in the get-of-sire class. The college also had the distinction of being the only exhibitor in the Percheron classes, who exhibited stock entirely of its own breeding.

Office of the BOARD OF SELECTMEN Northfield, Mass.

You are hereby required, on or before Dec. 1, 1929, to destroy the gypsy and brown tail moths on your property in this town.

This notification is in accordance with Chapter 132, General Laws, which requires cities and towns to destroy the eggs, caterpillars, pupae and nests of the gypsy and brown tail moths under heavy penalty for failure to comply with the provisions of the law.

If a property owner fails to destroy such eggs, caterpillars, pupae and nests, then the city or town is required to destroy the same and the cost of the work, in whole or in part, according to the value of the land, is assessed upon and becomes a lien on the land. (Section 18, Chapter 132, General Laws, on reverse).

The Selectmen ask owners and tenants to co-operate with the town in its work on highways and other public grounds by doing effective work on their premises. Citizens who have cleaned their premises of the moths, but find their trees endangered by the neglect of owners of adjoining estates, should make complaint to the Selectmen. The infestation of a residential neighborhood by the neglect of a few will not be tolerated.

The eggs of the gypsy moth should be destroyed at once with cresote. They should never be scraped off the object on which they are laid. Careful search should be made for gypsy moth egg clusters, not only on trees, but also on house walls, stone walls, fences and in rubbish heaps, etc. Trees in which cavities occur and which it is not desirable to cut should have the cavities tinned or cemented. This is important. The present and future cost of combating this insect can be greatly reduced by cutting and burning worthless brush, hollow trees, etc. A few trees well-cared for are more valuable to the property owner and the community than a large number of neglected trees.

The nests of the brown tail moth should be cut from the trees, carefully collected and burned in a stove or furnace.

Full instructions as to the best methods of work against the moths may be obtained from the Local Superintendent, Rodrick Parker, or from the State Forester, Room 519, State House, Boston, Mass.

Work done by contractors should be inspected and approved by Local Superintendent before payment for the same is made.

"Better Farming Train" to Tour New Hampshire

Cows and bulls of high degree, prize hens and roosters, and blooded sheep, together with the products of profitable orchards, are being assembled as exhibits for the county fair on wheels which the State of New Hampshire and the Boston & Maine Railroad will operate on a 600-mile rail tour of the State, beginning Oct. 14.

This New Hampshire-Boston & Maine "Better Farming Train" will make stops in 18 centers during the week, reaching into every corner of New Hampshire, and Governor Charles W. Tobey will head the speakers who will bring to the farmers of the State the gospel of improved practices leading to better farm profits. Like the county fair which it resembles without the midway, it will operate at night under flood lights.

The "Better Farming Train," which President George Hannauer of the Boston & Maine Railroad is supplying to the State Department of Agriculture, like the county fair, might proclaim itself "bigger and better than ever," because this year it will comprise 7 cars. The "Better Livestock Train," in which the railroad and State co-operated last year, had only five cars and covered only the dairy side; but it attracted 30,000 persons. This year the project, under the direction of Commissioner of Agriculture Andrew L. Felker, involves not only dairy, but poultry, sheep and orchard exhibits; and as a new note among several features not previously developed, the opportunity of the farmer to make new profits for himself by cultivating the farm woodlot will be developed.

New Hampshire University, New Hampshire Grange, the Farm Bureau of New Hampshire, the New Hampshire

Poultry Grower's Association, the various cattle breed associations, New Hampshire Horticultural Society and the Granite State Dairymen's Association are all co-operating in this year's New Hampshire-Boston & Maine "Better Farming Train."

THERE'S A DIFFERENCE IN TOWNS

Go into some towns and you will note that when a proposition comes up that has to do with the progress or welfare of the community, that everyone in town, it seems, gets back of it and works and gives time and money to put it across.

When the job is done, the community turns its attention to something else and with the same, whole-souled co-operation it turns in and puts it across.

Drop into another town and watch what happens when a like proposition comes up. A few will turn in and work for it, neglect their business and give time and money and effort to do something that will benefit the whole community. The others will stand around and do nothing. Blind to the good features of the proposition, they will pick flaws on which they can knock and give this as an excuse for their lack of co-operation.

A town cannot keep secret which faction rules it. You can tell it by one look at the town.

A MISTAKE MANY MERCHANTS MAKE

According to a well known writer, most merchants spend more thought on buying the merchandise they handle than they do on selling it.

After all, the selling of the merchandise is what makes the business a profitable one. A merchant may have ever so much superior merchandise, but unless he can sell it, it will not add to his profits, but will deteriorate in value on his shelves.

Good, interesting, well-written advertisements setting forth the desirable features of the merchandise should be run in the local paper every week.

Without advertising, a merchant must wait until a customer stumbles into his store, to sell him. This plan will not succeed in this age. There is too much competition from live, wide-awake merchandisers who are advertising their wares to the public. They have educated the public to read the advertisements. This is the modern method of shopping.

CORRESPONDENCE

The Airport and the Legion

At a meeting of the American Legion Post 179, held at the Town Hall on Monday evening, Sept. 30, the question of an airport for Northfield was discussed. The aviation committee reported that great interest has been expressed throughout the State in the prospect of an airport for Northfield.

Our State Department has promised us from eight to ten airplanes for an aerial display, and our District Council is planning to send several more. Altogether there will be at least 15 planes, with the prospect of a battery of anti-aircraft artillery in addition. The committee reported, however, that the field is not yet ready for a Legion opening. It was voted, therefore, to postpone the opening. There will be no lack of planes. What we need is a field that is safe for so large a display.

Mr. Lawrence Quinlan has done his share in offering the use of his land. Various citizens have contributed labor. But the equipment is needed, and equipment costs money. Without undue expense, the field cannot be put in shape for a Legion opening this fall. It has, therefore, been decided to hold a small commercial opening in order to obtain funds to carry on. The Legion has no connection with this opening. But it has been assured by Mr. Quinlan that the proceeds will be used to develop the field. We, therefore, wish Mr. Quinlan every success and trust that a huge crowd will attend this preliminary meet.

The Post adopted the following resolution:

"Pursuant to the general policy of the American Legion, the Haven, H. Spencer Post 179 stands behind the development of aviation at all times. We are in sympathy with, and will assist, when possible, any citizen or citizens of Northfield who are making a disinterested effort to establish a public landing field for the town, or in any other way promoting the cause of aviation.

"Be it resolved, therefore, that American Legion Post 179 stand ready to lend such co-operation as may prove practicable, and to take charge of the official opening of any airport which shall be offered for the use of the town and the pleasure and convenience of its citizens whenever the supervision of such airport shall be turned over to the Legion for that purpose."—Commander R. H. Wilder.

From a Wandering Northfieldian

Editor, Northfield Press:

Northfield, what does that mean to a former resident? Does that name bring back pleasant memories and make him wish that he were there, or does he connect that name with things that might be? I have met both kinds, and upon considering their positions in life, can readily see that the opinion of each was justifiable. Not long ago I was talking with a man and upon mentioning the fact that I, too, was a son of Northfield, he made this reply in a way that showed that Northfield had not come up to his expectations. For he said:

"Northfield differs from most towns in that it has few dollars and a great deal of sense, but most of it is going to waste. The town is full of men and women who have the time and personality to do big things and to make Northfield known for something besides D. L. Moody, but they had rather rest on his laurels which, by the way, are more widespread than many imagine. Instead of having Northfield run the conferences, the brains seem to be coming from elsewhere, and instead of Northfield's reaping the benefits they go elsewhere.

"It is true that the Seminary and conferences employ many townsmen, but what else do they do? They keep the standard of living too high for the majority, so instead of having a golden mean, there is a conflict between the so-called intelligentsia and the more humble townsmen. By this standard Northfield will never have a place where men can find steady employment with a weekly pay envelope. For, if they are to keep Northfield free from factories and the like, they should strive to make the whole town attractive, so that all may benefit from the yearly influx.

"Will the people of Northfield do something to keep the young blood pulsing through the town, or will they continue living as well as driving in rats? Who will keep up the old home-est eads? One thing is certain, if the prodigal sons return they will have to bring their own fatted calf with them.

"What Northfield needs is another awakening. In its early years the Indians kept things moving. Then its position on the post road, with taverns and hostleries, kept it on the map. Still later educational institutions carried on the good work, but now she needs another stimulus. Perhaps in the form of an air center with training schools, assembling plants and the like."

"A NORTHFIELDIAN."

Selected Recipes

2 ounces of chocolate, melted
1½ cups of prepared cake flour, sifted
3 teaspoons of baking powder
¼ teaspoon of salt
½ teaspoon of cinnamon
2 eggs well beaten
1 cup of sugar
3 tablespoons of shortening, melted
¾ cup of milk

Gradually beat the sugar into the eggs; add the melted shortening and chocolate, and alternately the milk and flour—sifted, measured, and sifted again with the baking powder, salt and cinnamon. Bake in a pan 7 x 11 inches, about 45 or 50 minutes, in an oven at 350 degrees, Fahrenheit, thus frosting:

When the cake is cool, cover it with 1½ cup of confectioner's sugar which has been sifted
3 tablespoons cocoa
¾ cup of milk
A scant half teaspoon of vanilla

Mix the sugar and cocoa together, then stir in the two liquids, mixing it all thoroughly.

A Golden Wedding

The golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. John Metcalf was celebrated with appropriate ceremonies at the spacious mansion of their son-in-law, Mr. Walcott, on the afternoon and evening of Sept. 24. The gifts were entirely in money, consisting of gold, silver and banknotes. The sum of the presents amounted to $107.

Merritt H. Shaw

Merritt H. Shaw, 63, a resident of this town for the past 30 years, where he had conducted a saw mill and at one time was in the grain business, died very suddenly this week Monday noon at the home of John Taft in West Dummerston, Vt., where he had stopped to call while en route to his home from Wardsboro, Vt. Mr. Shaw, who was driving his horse and was unaccompanied, fell from the horse and was killed instantly. Dr. B. E. White of Brattleboro, who arrived some time later, pronounced death due to heart trouble. The body was taken to Lamb's undertaking parlors in Hinsdale.

Mr. Shaw was born in Hebron, N. Y., Nov. 15, 1866, a son of Hebron and Emeline (Stark) Shaw. He came to Hinsdale from Vermont about 30 years ago. His wife, who bore her marriage was Mary Slason, died about 31 years ago.

He leaves two children, Mrs. Hazel Currier of Hinsdale and Fred Shaw of Tupper Lake, N. Y. He also leaves four sisters, Mrs. Phoebe Henshaw and Mrs. Emma Shaw of Los Angeles, Calif.; Mrs. David Thornton of Winchester, N. H.; Mrs. Edwin Jewett of Portsmouth, N. H.; one brother, Ernest Shaw of Oakland, Calif., and two grandchildren, George Shaw of Guilford, Vt., and Bertha Currier of Hinsdale.

Funeral services were held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Levi J. Howard this week Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment took place in Winchester, N. H.

H. H. S. SEARCHLIGHT

Susie Pierson, Editor

The need of a high school had long been felt by the citizens of Hinsdale and attempts have been made to bring it up before the Town meeting. At the Town meeting of 1918 the people voted to raise $1000 for its support and elected a committee to make arrangements.

Mr. Lemuel Fales, the agent for the high school, was successful in securing the services of Charles P. Hall of Princeton, Ill., and Miss Hattie Lyman of Winchester. Fifty-one scholars enrolled, 24 boys and 27 girls. Each teacher received $111.11 a month.

The subjects taken were arithmetic, grammar, geography, reading and spelling.

The second year the enrollment was 60 scholars, 30 boys and 30 girls. The roll of honor for the year was Laura A. Butler, Fred S. Leonard, Edwin L. Sargeant, Charles E. Snow and Henry W. Taylor. The enrollment the third year was 67 and the honor roll for the year was Fred S. Leonard, M. Elizabeth Atwood, Nellie M. Hannon and Mary A. Spencer.

Members of the graduating class in 1882 follows in the order in which they spoke at graduation: Has the Indian Rights? (with salutation), Mary A. Spencer, who after graduation taught in the South and then married Charles Langille, a painter of this town; Singlehears of Purpose: Mary E. Atwood, who taught four years in Hinsdale and then married Albert Fisher, a local photographer; Tin Cups: Lou S. Bascom, who married William Bohman, a cigar maker. They lived in Boston a while and then moved to Manchester; Class Chronicles: Ida M. Beckley, who did office work for a while and then married Mr. Joselyn. They went out West to live; "The Twin Barbarity": Fred E. Wellington, who married Anna Beals of this town. He ran a grocery store until his death in 1889; No Heights Without Climbing: Fannie M. Coombs, who married Alfred Stebbins of Brattleboro, and who died July 6, 1927; Every Cloud Has a Silver Lining: Gerlie S. Sabin, who married Frank E. Field of this town. Her son, Robert Field, who was called the class baby, broadcasts from Radio Station W. B. Z. in Springfield and is a noted organist; The Sweet Voiced Bird Has Flown (with valedictory): Minnie A. Bascom, who, after graduation, was a milliner, and then married William Kenney. Gerlie Saben was not absent or tardy during her four years of high school.

The essays gave evidence of high moral standing of culture which Principal Hall always inculcated, and that nobility of thought which is the outgrowth of a sincere and earnest life.

Minnie (Bascom) Kenney's essay was a beautiful tribute to the poet, Longfellow. The graduating class presented Principal Hall with a framed picture of Longfellow on the afternoon before graduation.

It is hoped by a few members of the former classes of H. H. S. that a reunion of the classes from 1882-1929 may be held sometime in the near future.

Peas in the Vegetable Plate

A LUNCHEON or dinner which contains no meat is occasionally enjoyable in the summer, and of all the vegetables which are especially adapted to such dishes, the pea is one of the best. It contains some protein which, combined with a comparatively small amount of cheese or eggs, will give enough for a really hearty meal, and by using canned peas for the main food and fresh vegetables for the accessories, time and expense are saved.

Peas in Patties

In the plate dinner illustrated, peas are served in a patty shell with a cheese sauce over them. Slices of fresh tomato and parsley potatoes are shown with the pea patty.

Another vegetable plate might have on it sliced cucumbers, scalloped potatoes and pea and walnut roast with tomato sauce. The roast consists of canned peas, walnuts and bread crumbs combined with a thick white sauce and egg, and baked until brown and attractive. It is then sliced and served with tomato sauce.

Canned peas may be combined equally well with a fish or meat salad to form the foundation of a cold meal. A salad composed of water-cress, tuna fish, peas and celery, could be served with fruit muffins or baking powder biscuits and would form almost a meal in itself.

For breakfast or luncheon, an egg omelette may be spread with creamed peas just before folding over, and surrounded with creamed peas on the serving dish. A small amount of minced pimiento also adds an enticing note of color when the bits are sprinkled over the omelette.

"I've Been Reading"

By WILDER BUELL

THE PROPHET'S WIFE, by R. O. Prowse, Houghton Mifflin Co., pp320, price $2.50.

There is nothing really new under the sun. And it is quite impossible for the literary artist to think up either characters or situations that are utterly without parallel in the literature of the past. If he attempts it, he will become so strange and queer that he will be falsifying life. It is never a fair criticism, therefore, to say that a book reminds the reader of some other classic in its theme or treatment, if the criticism is meant as a disparagement. But there are limits beyond which a writer ought not to go unless he wants to invite such a comparison, unless he is willing to establish a definite test whereby his work can be judged, in short, unless he feels that he has taken someone else's theme and definitely improved upon it. (I do not refer, of course, to what a publisher may say in advertising a book, but upon the work of the author himself.) And this thought is brought home to me by the book I have just read.

I sent for it because of its title, thinking that it might be something of interest to those of us who are thinking along the lines of religious change and adjustment. But the contribution to philosophic thought is slight. The protagonist, or at least the man, the prophet, if he is the protagonist, might just as well have been a politician or a teacher or a business man. There is nothing new in the religious part of the book, merely the idea that a more rational church would be a good thing, without any details as to the how and the why. The man's work and the man himself, for that matter, are commonplace, the interest in the story lies in the relations between the man, who is vaguely of the middle classes (the book is English) and his wife who is, also vaguely, of the aristocracy. She marries him because he is a great man and then she doesn't like him and wants to go home to her brother! But she doesn't, and is released from her obligations at the end only to decide that, after all, he was a great man, and she must live out her life as a kind of monument to him.

As I read the book there was something about it that was faintly familiar. In spite of the low key in which it is written, I kept thinking in a reminiscent way of high comedy. This, somehow, was a situation that I had met before in literature and definitely liked, whereas I did not like the present book at all. I then remembered, Anthony Hope! There is a book called Quisante by Anthony Hope (my copy by Thomas Nelson & Sons) that is identical in theme and plot. But what a difference! I re-read Quisante and decided that I had discovered what called modern literature!

Everything in the present book is so vague, so formless, so dependent upon minute psychological states that it is plain dull, although well and skillfully written. Whereas Anthony Hope sparkles and lives from front page to final page. In Prowse the wife is vaguely of the gentry. In Hope the aristocratic figures are the younger sons and daughters of Dukes and Earls. Real ones! In Prowse the gentleman is vaguely "common." In Hope he is dreadful in his adroit maneuvering to get ahead in the world, but very funny, at least to one who has read Frank Kent. And he has "moments" which endear him not only to his aristocratic friends, but to the reader as well, moments of greatness, which can be understood. And in Hope there are a number of minor characters so clearly drawn in the comic spirit that the reader can understand and sympathize with the wife by comparing the husband with her friends.

The difference between these two books, which are so alike, in theme and plot, is the difference between low tragedy and high comedy. "Low tragedy" is a term which I have invented to supply a long felt want. It refers to the kind of writing of which the book under review is a sample, and which is much admired in modern letters. (I note that the London Spectator, to my surprise, admires Mr. Prowse.) It is the kind of writing that takes two or more utterly uninteresting people through years and pages of suffering that one good laugh would have cleared away in the life of any normal human being. This is another one of those books that are well done. But why do it? If the difference between the book and Anthony Hope is the difference between modern England and the England before the war, then all is lost in England. But then I don't believe it. The trouble is with the artist, not with the world.

Call Me at Seven

"I get home about six in the evening, have dinner, and often go out with the family around eight o'clock.

"If you wait until eight-thirty to call me on the telephone during the night-rate period, you may not find me at home.

"If you call before seven, you have to pay full day rates.

"But—there is a low evening rate for social calls from seven to eight-thirty. That's the best time to reach me at home."

Traffic records show that a greater percentage of calls can be completed promptly between seven and eight-thirty than at any other time in the evening.

Plan your social calls during this period. Take advantage of the low evening rates which apply on station-to-station calls above forty miles.

Dana L. Darling Makes Success With His Glider

As a result of over five months labor, Dana L. Darling of 68 Congress street, with the aid of Stewart Cummings, has constructed a large glider plane with which he has made eight trial flights during the past three weeks at the Franklin airport in Turners Falls. The last flight of the plane was made Sunday morning, with Mr. Darling manipulating the controls, and the glider attained a height of over 100 feet. This flight proved to be the record one of the queer craft, which is shot into the air by means of an automobile pulling it along the ground until a rate of 35 miles an hour is obtained and the craft rises into the air at that speed to remain almost a half minute or more probably gliding through the sky at the rate of 25 miles an hour. The flight Sunday was the best that Mr. Darling has obtained with the plane, the flight lasting long enough for the plane to fly the length of the airport.

Chevrolet Sixes Sold One Million Two Hundred Thousand

The Chevrolet Company announced here today that more than 1,200,000 of the new six-cylinder Chevrolet cars have been placed on the road since the first of the year.

The achievement accomplished in a little over nine months is three times the best showing of any other manufacturer of six-cylinder cars in a calendar year and tops Chevrolet's record total for the entire year of 1928.

It is now certain that six-cylinder production will set a world record this year, surpassing for the first time in the history of the industry the output of four-cylinder cars. This leadership of the sixes will come about chiefly because of Chevrolet's record showing this year.

Chevrolet factory officials declare that the dominating reason back of the leadership of the sixes is the public preference for the advantages which this type of construction affords. They point out, too, that the influence of great volume production, which has enabled the industry to get six-cylinder prices down to the lowest on record and has made it possible for Chevrolet, through maximum volume, to offer six-cylinder performance at a price that formerly bought only a four.

With a new yearly record already assured, Chevrolet factories are continuing on the biggest Fall production program ever undertaken by the company. Nine assembly plants and seven large manufacturing plants are facing the busiest final quarter that Chevrolet has ever known.

The heavy Fall program was made necessary, it was explained, to bring production up to the level of the demand and make possible quicker deliveries to owners.
